

AJT Engineering LTD - Aberdeen

AJT Engineering Ltd, located in two facilities in Aberdeen on the West Tullos and Altens Industrial Estates, has been operating for more than 60 years and has developed into one of Scotland's premier engineering organisations.

Operating in the North Sea and global oil and gas sector over this period has enabled AJT Engineering's Mechanical Fitting section to provide an unrivalled service in the assembly, disassembly, repair, refurbishment, and pressure testing of a wide range of onshore and offshore oil exploration and production equipment.

The management team at AJT Engineering Limited were quite clear in their part cleaning requirements for this section and were looking for a cleaning system that offered them improved cleaning facilities from their existing cleaning method while still offering a safe, environmentally friendly, cost effective solution.

With the significant constant cleaning power, environmental and welfare benefits, together with the ease of use of the Bio Circle system the management at AJT Engineering Limited could see the potential of this system to their business and were happy to undertake a two week system demonstration. By having the demonstration, the engineering team were able to see first-hand the power and benefits of the Bio Circle Parts Cleaning system. After assessing the results, AJT Engineering limited were happy to order the Bio Circle GT Compact system.

With the installation of their new Bio Circle GT Compact system, in their Altens facility, the engineering team at AJT Engineering Limited are now able to realise these benefits on a daily basis
